Whistleblower & Immonahity

March 10, 2022

I am writing pertaining to Jon F. Turpin. I had the privilege of getting to know him in my capacity as pastor of St. Gabriel Catholic Church in Connersville, IN.

I first met Jon after a Sunday Mass in 2020 when he came up and introduced himself to me. As I recall, he was with his fiancé, Erin (they have since married!). While this might seem normal, it's not all that common to meet a young adult wanting to grow his faith alongside the woman with whom he plans to spend the rest of his life. Normally, twenty-somethings are not attending churches of any kind – let alone seeking to establish a marital life founded on faith.

Jon was not Catholic when I first met him in 2020, but he and Erin would talk to me about their courtship. He was living and working in a neighboring town. Erin was not even living in Indiana. They had to put in a tremendous amount of effort and make lots of sacrifices to ensure that the temporary distance between themselves did not hinder their life together. In fact, I truly believe because they put so much effort into their relationship, the distance they had to overcome ended up serving them well as they prepared for marriage. Because they overcame this geographic adversity, I believe it revealed a capacity within Jon. He can utilize adversity and make it work for the good of himself and those around him.

Another depth to Jon's character was made apparent to me as he began his formal journey to becoming Catholic. Jon was busy, but he prioritized well the things that were important to him. And the things important to Jon are indeed important in and of themselves. Besides his future spouse, his work, and other relationships, Jon's prioritization of faith was apparent. He committed to weekly classes centered on growing his relationship with God through what the Catholic Church offers. He asked questions, shared his own experiences, and personally grew throughout the process. It all revealed a great maturity within him through prioritizing and taking responsibility for those things and relationships that are simply important and serve to make for a better society and human person.

Jon and Erin are now married. Even though I no longer get to personally witness their commitment to one another, I have every confidence that Jon continues to prioritize the important things of faith, marriage and family, work, and service of all those he encounters within them. And that is all something we miss in our parish community. What Jon contributed to our little parish community is something I commonly see out of older generations, which is what stands out most to me as he is not of an older generation. Jon's age group does not commonly possess the fortitude and sense of responsibility of previous generations. Our parish and community's loss in that is felt. However, our loss is now another community's gain, and that is as it should be.

Thank you for your time and your continued support and concern for Jon.

Subject: Protect Abortion Survivors

Dear Senator Braun,

I write to express my concern about the current lack of federal protections for abortion survivors. Once a baby is born, there is absolutely no doubt that it is a human life that deserves protections from our government equal to those afforded any other newborn child. Currently, babies born alive during botched abortions are often neglected and ultimately die because there is no federal legal requirement that they receive proper medical care.

The Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act sponsored by Representative Ann Wagner is an important bill that addresses this gap in federal law. It protects mothers while requiring that medical providers give the same care to babies that survive abortion as they would to other babies in need.

It imposes fines and/or jail time on healthcare practitioners and medical employees that fail to admit newborn abortion survivors to the hospital and fail to "exercise the same degree of professional skill, care, and diligence to preserve the life and health of the child as a reasonably diligent and conscientious health care provider would render to any other child born alive..." It also confirms explicitly that intentional killing of a newborn abortion survivor is murder, and punishable as such.

Please pass the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act, which requires medical providers to provide life-saving care to newborn babies while holding accountable those who fail to do so. I appreciate this opportunity to have my voice heard and look forward to hearing of your support for this important legislation. There is NEVER a good reason to neglect a child and allow them to die.

Sincerely, Jon F D Turpin

MIKE BRAUN INDIANA WASHINGTON, DC OFFICE: 685 RUSSELL SENATE OFFICE BUILDING WASHINGTON, DC 20510 (202) 224-4614

United States Senate

September 5, 2023

Dear Mr. Turpin,

Thank you for contacting my office regarding H.R. 26, the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act. I appreciate hearing from you on this legislation.

On January 9, 2023, Congresswoman Ann Wagner of Missouri introduced H.R. 26 in the U.S. House of Representatives. On January 11, 2023, H.R. 26 passed in the House and was received in the U.S. Senate on January 23, 2023, where the bill is awaiting further action. If enacted, this bill would protect newborns that survive abortion attempts by ensuring that the newborn receives the same degree of care as would be provided to any other child born alive. A health care practitioner who fails to provide the proper required care to the newborn is subject to criminal penalties, which may include a fine, up to five years in prison, or both. The bill also bars criminal prosecutions of a mother of a child born alive and allows her to bring civil action against a health care practitioner in violation of the bill.

During my tenure in the United States Senate, I will vote in a way that best represents my values and the values of the constituents who elected me, supporting legislation that recognizes that life begins at conception. Indiana did not elect me to be passive in my support of the right to life; I will proactively push for measures that will protect life.

The right to life is deeply important to me, and I firmly believe that life begins at conception. I know that I was elected in part by Hoosiers to actively protect life at the federal level. I am eager to continue promoting policies that ensure that your federal tax dollars are not abused by lending to any efforts that would endanger or destroy innocent life, undermine the efforts of state legislatures to protect life, or further degrade a culture of life.

In order to be more transparent about my work in Washington when it comes to defending life, I have attached a brochure detailing the efforts I undertook during the 117th Congress. As I consider current and future opportunities to engage in the fight for life in the 118th Congress, I will keep your comments in mind.

Thank you for contacting me. It is an honor to serve as your U.S. Senator from Indiana. Please keep in touch with me on issues of concern to you. You can also follow me on Twitter or Facebook for real-time updates on my activities in the U.S. Senate. If I ever may be of service, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely.

Have you ever tried to turn in evidence in good faith efforts of a publicly validated scam, paid $5,000 up front to follow the law, with another $15,000+ to go, been told you could receive a potential felony, possibly followed by private investigators, accused of being on a drug bender, or a conspiracy theorist, for a private opinion... which then turns out to be consistently affirmed by officials... and be slowly demolished by those who stole from you?

Would you handle it as reasonably as we have done, went to church to pray for forgiveness and grace for the bad apples, paid a lawyer with the last of your retirement and endured being scapegoated for the duration by the bad apples who had committed the crimes?

In my opinion, our Honorable Kennedys and Johnsons may understand better than I ever will or want to, and I want to thank you for still having faith in us and our great nation.

I won't even pretend to understand what your families have endured to serve us publicly, but I will say I see it and I appreciate you asking the tough questions and speaking truth to power daily, because I've never seen anyone more deserving of the presidency to this day.

To our Honorable Mr. John N. Kennedy, and with all due sympathy and respect to the lifelong work of the Biden and Harris families... if I was forced to vote for the same we've been enduring and a pair of wet socks with faces on them, I'd vote for the socks twice.

And I could actually vote for the socks twice because of the failure in the administration that caused me to have the ability to vote in two states, and at least then there could be a question about whether or not I committed a crime instead of being defamed for a lifetime.

To be clear, I have no plan to vote twice, I don't think anyone should vote multiple times, but I also don't think anyone should force us to vote to endure the administration we have again, regardless of what names they call anyone who doesn't subscribe to their dystopia.

That is my opinion.

However, in my opinion, it's not extreme to have an inquiry and want answers, especially when a potential hate crime has been committed against me and my wife without remedy.

What would you call someone threatening you and your wife, trying to stop a Catholic marriage, and trying repeatedly to take your rights away without just cause nor reason?

What if it stopped your honeymoon, messed up your background check, and your career? Despite state lines and when you only spoke in defense of your wife to an unjust threat?

What would you call multiple unnecessary welfare checks wasting law enforcements' time? Would you also have inquiries into how the day-to-day administration was operating?

Were this your position, would you consider it to be "extreme MAGA Republican?"

Project Nightingale [edit]

The Wall Street Journal reported on a collaboration between Ascension and Google in 2019 to share health technology company. Known as Project Nightingale, the stated purpose of the collaboration was to make it patient records. ^[26] The partnership drew criticism over privacy concerns and the potential for violations of 1 Accountability Act, and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services opened an investigation into the professor of public health at Texas A&M University, noted that the Nightingale Project could improve health minorities that are underrepresented in clinical studies, but also raised the lack of a patient opt-out and the accountability processes as concerns. ^[29]

Project Nightingale wasn't the first project where this occurred, but I haven't added to Wikipedia:

Merge Cardiovascular's Reporting System and IBM Watson were the first attempt, and sudden and extreme layoffs of both Ascension Health and IBM may have occurred some time afterwards.

The project also happened after one of the last Sisters, the Nuns, were no longer with Ascension.

It appears this was attempted again with project Nightingale and the Google AI system according to Wikipedia, but with the same extreme concern that employees expressed during the first attempts to connect a non-functioning reporting system and IBM's Watson.

I did my job and ensured the reporting system could work, without credit, but I still had the documentation in the cloud, which may be part of the reason why I no longer have a job.

If I have no restitution, no reparations, and similar firings while falsely identified as a threat by bad apples and their intolerable bad behaviors, at some point, the information would no longer exist, just as I had to scuttle all patient data backups meant for disaster recovery.

In my opinion, I have the misfortune of actually being someone who has worked on extremely hard projects where... nationally they had no one else who was, at that time, simultaneously employed by Ascension Information Services/Ascension Health/St. Vincent, with the specific skillset and niche that I had been performing for years since FujiFilm Medical Systems, USA. I was the youngest person FujiFilm hired officially and the first person they hired into the position I was in without already having a Bachelor's degree.

When I say this, I say it without personal braggadocio, and simply state it factually.

Ascension Health/St. Vincent had no other employee with the skillset that I possessed to not only repair the FujiFilm Medical System (Synapse Cardiovascular) database, but also to enable the IBM Watson Health (Merge Cardiovascular) systems to integrate with it due to each system's design and database standards.

They also had no other employee who was simultaneously a Domain Admin, able to decipher how the Merge Cardiovascular Reporting System interfaced with Microsoft's Active Directory, nor another who determined how each of the separate Merge Cardiovascular software programs could be installed in a seamless way allowing SCCM to implement them. The management at Ascension Health asked nationally two times to attempt to find a team who could perform the tasks I was required to complete but failed.

This doesn't mean other employees who specialized in each of these niches didn't help me, but I was creating the design, correcting the databases, training the project managers... ensuring that we followed protocols, with assistance from other qualified professionals.

I was performing the role of a Chief Information Officer and a leader in that organization, all the way to the executive review board, while performing the tasks of potentially four people.

My regular workday was 16 hours long and went until 4am sometimes to ensure the project that they assigned me, which was 6 months behind when they hired me, succeeded.

I was rewarded with being identified as a threat, and wrongfully terminated, along with other members of the team who were aware of the gross mismanagement occurring.

The intolerable bad behavior of the bad apples who did this and ruined careers not only affected the workers, but it also may have been why the Cardiovascular software crashed, causing patient delays and a shutdown of the Indianapolis St. Vincent Cardiology systems.

I was never promoted, despite having the highest performance review and raise of any employee on my entire floor, but was instead later wrongfully convicted in an event outside of the hospital due to the interference of another bad apple I've mentioned. I was never given the job title of the positions I was required to perform, but also retaliated against for attending family funerals and laid off, despite performing all job functions and more above all expectations. They wouldn't even discuss severance with me and it's happened again.

May this be a complete and utter annihilation of all my rights, along with mine and my wife's entire livelihood, careers, and a complete besmirchment of someone who saved lives?

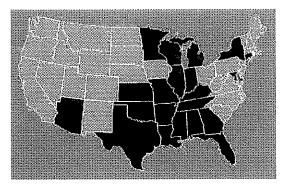

There is no way we can ever recover...

But when that honest truth is said, bad apples pretend I'm suicidal or homicidal when I'm neither, and pretend I'm a threat to society, and to my knowledge are never prosecuted.

Sincerely, Jon F. D. Turpin, Pro Se, Pro Hac Vice

Ascension looks to mergers and acquisitions to positively impact more lives, enhance quality and enrich community collaboration

With its sizable national footprint and broad scope of services, Ascension has a rich history of partnering with and acquiring other mission-focused hospitals and health systems. This approach has allowed Ascension to broaden its capacity to serve while strengthening Catholic healthcare in the United States.

Transactions highlighted in this summary include Crittenton Hospital Medical Center in Michigan

(now Ascension Providence Rochester Hospital, part of Ascension Michigan) (2015); the Southeast Wisconsin operations and related corporate services of Wheaton Franciscan Healthcare (now part of Ascension Wisconsin) (2016); and Presence Health, now part of Ascension's Chicago ministries.

Ascension's quadruple aim calls us to deliver improved health outcomes and enhanced patient and provider experiences at a lower cost of care. To reach these goals, our strategy includes developing clinically integrated systems of compassionate, personalized care in the 21 states and District of Columbia where we serve. Recent key mergers, acquisitions and joint ventures have positioned us to deliver on those goals:

 Impacting more lives. As other hospitals and systems become part of Ascension, we have been able to provide a presence and greater access to our broad range of services to more people. For example, adding the Presence acute care facilities, outpatient locations and employed physicians has created greater access and more convenience for Chicago-area residents.

Ascension Providence Rochester has reported that as a result of joining Ascension the hospital was able to recruit 61 primary care physicians (PCPs) in the larger community, thereby establishing access points that brought care closer to patients. The PCPs include all new faculty for the hospital's Internal Medicine and Family Medicine residency programs, thus allowing Ascension to advance its Mission of serving all persons, especially underserved populations.

Merging also enables both new and legacy facilities of Ascension to benefit from greater purchasing power, as Ascension's own group purchasing organization (GPO) is able to negotiate for lower costs on equipment and supplies as a result of greater volume. For example, the former Wheaton Franciscan facilities noted enhanced purchasing power through Ascension's GPO, The Resource Group, as a major benefit to joining Ascension. Paying less for equipment and supplies has enabled Ascension to focus assets toward providing care to the individuals and communities we serve.

• Enhancing quality and safety. As a high reliability organization, Ascension leads in several quality and safety metrics. Through deliberate and thoughtful learning, "playbooks," benchmarks and data interoperability, we have been able to share all that we have learned about quality and safety with our acquired hospitals and health systems to ensure that the same level of standardized, consistent quality care is provided at those locations. We also have found that bringing in new systems and providers gives us an opportunity to learn from their expertise and experience as well.

The integration of Presence Health into Ascension's Chicago-area ministries has allowed for increased efficiencies in our clinical quality programs. A Ministry-Wide Clinical Operations Council was established to facilitate quality reporting and system-wide performance improvement planning. Multiple system-wide quality initiatives, including high reliability, enhanced recovery after surgery, decreasing unwarranted clinical variation, a predictive analytics tool, decreasing sepsis mortality, and patient and provider experience have been quickly expanded and disseminated across the system following integration. Taking advantage of a regional structure that has connected hub and spoke hospitals, we have been able to optimize clinical service lines across regions.

Former Wheaton facilities have benefited from several quality and safety initiatives as a result of joining Ascension. These include becoming part of the Ascension Clinical Research Institute; affinity groups such as OB/Gyn, oncology, telebehavioral, neuro surgical and spine; national benchmarking efforts for important system-wide priorities such as reducing sepsis, heart failure and healthcare disparities, and improving cancer screening, diabetes management and comprehensive joint replacement; and Centers of Excellence related to pharmacy, advocacy, data security, strategy and more.

To improve clinical quality and its level of care, Ascension has invested over $60 million of its $100 million commitment to Ascension Providence Rochester and has $19.5 million more in process. Imaging, surgery and ED renovations represent the largest areas of spending. Its new cardiac catheterization lab and interventional radiology rooms are state of the art and have allowed Ascension Providence Rochester to attract new physicians to the community. The ED renovations have improved the hospital's healing environment and its ability to provide care quickly and efficiently, most evident by its best-in-class door-to-doc time of under 12 minutes.

Persons living in poverty and other community benefit programs. One of many ways Ascension provides this care is through Medical Missions at Home. These one-day events aim to deliver healthcare, social and support services to those who might not otherwise be able to receive them. Partnering with community organizations, Ascension provides care such as medical screenings, behavioral health screenings, financial counseling, dentistry and more at no cost. By joining Ascension, hospitals and health systems are able to participate in these outreach efforts in a consistent way that has proven effective. So far, Ascension Wisconsin has held Medical Mission at Home events in the Stevens Point and Racine communities and has one scheduled in September for Milwaukee.

Ascension Providence Rochester was asked to integrate our Catholic identity and Mission into all facets of the organization. This coincided with Ascension's unified brand journey that began in Wisconsin and Michigan, which has enabled those we serve to recognize, connect and engage with Ascension at home, at our sites of care across the country and online. According to Ascension Providence Rochester, the "move to a Catholic identity has been impactful and very well received by the associates. The 2020 community health needs assessment just completed speaks to the community collaboration that has become so strong, which largely was not nearly as robust prior to Ascension's acquisition in 2015." Key takeaways from the community health needs assessment:

- The hospital's Advisory Board now has an unprecedented number and diversity of members.
- The community response about the survey demonstrated the interest and foundation for outreach that Ascension Providence Rochester has attained, especially in regard to the new faith-based Mission of the hospital as part of Ascension.
- o Three identified areas of focus for community need obesity/nutrition, mental health and access to care are all part of Ascension's strategic plan for 2020 and beyond. This level of coordination between service and Mission did not exist in years past.

Several other key benefits to mergers and acquisitions for Ascension and those who have joined it have included an enhanced physician enterprise through the Ascension Medical Group and additional infrastructure investments and solutions implementation (such as standard processes for Finance, Human Resources and Supply Chain).

Tech Titans and US Congress discuss Al regulation

Our Report: Yesterday the U.S. Senate held a closed-door meeting discussing the need for governmental regulation on Al. Whilst the consensus reached was that there is a need for Al regulation, the specific regulatory details still remain unspecific.

Key Points:

- The private forum was organized by Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer, attended by notable figures like Elon Musk, Mark Zuckerberg, Bill Gates, and Sundar Pichai—and aimed to understand the industry perspective on AI regulation.
- Ideas included creating an independent agency for Al oversight, ensuring transparency from companies, and staying ahead of global competitors like China.
- Musk highlighted the need for a "referee" in the rapidly evolving sector, with other discussions revolving around existential risks, the debate between closed vs. "open source" Al models, and potential licensing requirements.
- Proposals for AI regulations include legislation to mandate disclaimers for AI-generated deceptive election ads and whilst tech companies largely support the idea of AI regulations, a clear direction or consensus on the specifics is missing.
- Why you should care: The U.S. government's approach to AI regulation will significantly impact the tech industry's future, dictating how AI evolves and is utilized in both the commercial and public sectors.

- Absolutely, I think it's incredibly important
- Not bothered
- O Don't even want to hear about it

Dear Jon,

You know how the Biden Administration, the Schumer-led Senate Democrats, and the Fake News feel about me.

You've seen how they slander and attack, mock and ridicule, degrade and undercut me.

That's how our rivals operate, but you and I both know this: They don't ignore me.

So much of the corruption and scandal we preached about years ago has been exposed for all to see. Thank you for sticking by me, Jon. We're making progress. We won't be bullied or ignored. The truth is a powerful thing, and we have the truth on our side.

I'm inspired by your recent contribution. Thank you for your generosity. Rest assured it makes a difference and it doesn't go unnoticed.

Our cause grows stronger because of patriots like you who have the wisdom to cut through the liberal clutter and Fake News smokescreen and fight for the truth.

Jon, I'm more grateful than you know to have you by my side in this fight.

Apostolic Nunciature to the United States

Coordinates: 38°55'28"N 77°3'56"W

The Apostolic Nunciature to the United States, sometimes referred to as the Vatican Embassy, is the diplomatic mission of the Holy See to the United States. It is located at 3339 Massachusetts Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D.C., in the Embassy Row neighborhood. Since 2016, the papal nuncio has been Archbishop Christophe Pierre.

The Apostolic Nunciature to the United States is an ecclesiastical office of the Catholic Church in the United States, with the rank of an embassy. The nuncio serves both as the ambassador of the Holy See to the government of the United States and as delegate and point-of-contact between the Catholic hierarchy in America and the pope.

The Apostolic Nunciature is an administrative center of the Catholic Church in the United States. Communications from the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops and the various dioceses in the United States to the Holy See pass through the nunciature. The nuncio also fills a central role in the appointment of bishops in the U.S. and is the official responsible for announcing such appointments.

The physical building which houses the offices of the apostolic nuncio and his staff is called the Nunciature to the United States of America. It is exempt from the jurisdiction of the Archdiocese of Washington (canon 366 1°).

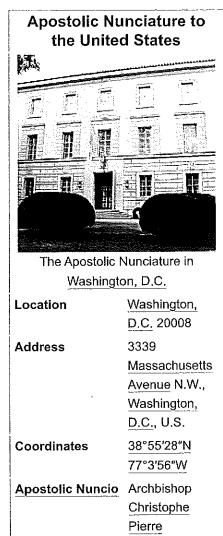

History

The Apostolic Delegation to the United States was established on January 24, 1893, with offices in Washington, D.C.; it was led by an apostolic delegate. The delegation was the result of an effort by the Holy See to establish communication between Pope Leo XIII and President Benjamin Harrison. An apostolic delegate is an ecclesiastical official, rather than a diplomat, who represents the Holy See to the Catholic Church in his host country. Because the delegate was not recognized by the U.S. government, the Holy See was not restricted in its choice of delegate, and there were periods when two delegates served at the same time.

The Holy See usually names a pro-nuncio rather than a delegate in anticipation of the establishment of diplomatic relations. Diplomatic relations between the U.S. and the Vatican were established on January 10, 1984, [2] the result of the close friendship between Pope John Paul II and President Ronald Reagan, and the delegation was elevated to the rank of nunciature on January 11. [3] The Holy See's representative continued to be titled pro-nuncio because at the time, the Vatican only gave the title of nuncio to its ambassadors who were deans of the diplomatic corps in their host country. In 1990 and 1991, the Vatican quietly began using the title of nuncio for all its newly appointed ambassadors who were not the deans of a country's diplomatic corps, though it retained the pro-nuncio title for all those already appointed. [a]

At its establishment in 1893, the Apostolic Delegation occupied temporary quarters at the Catholic University of America, then from 1894 on a row of antebellum houses north of the United States Capitol. It moved in 1907 into a new home at 1811 Biltmore Street NW, designed for that purpose in 1905 by architect Albert Olszewski Von Herbulis (razed in 1973). United States Senate

Dear Mr. Turpin,

Thank you for contacting my office regarding House Resolution 8 and House Resolution 89, Impeaching Alejandro Nicholas Mayorkas, Secretary of Homeland Security, for high crimes and misdemeanors. I appreciate hearing from you on this matter.

On January 9, 2023, Congressman Pat Fallon of Texas introduced H.Res.8 in the U.S. House of Representatives where it was subsequently referred to the House Committee on the Judiciary. On February 1, 2023, Congressman Andy Biggs of Arizona introduced a similar resolution, H.Res.89 that also awaits further action in the House Judiciary Committee. These resolutions serve as introductions of articles of impeachment to remove from office DHS Secretary Mayorkas for his failure to maintain operational control of the southern border and releasing millions of illegal aliens into the United States.

I am appalled that Secretary Mayorkas has not only failed to secure our southern border, but also fails to enforce our immigration laws. Since President Biden took office, United States Customs and Border Protection (CBP) has encountered over five million migrants at the southern border, the highest rate in over two decades. Our federal government's foremost responsibility is to ensure the safety and prosperity of our citizens. The Biden Administration's failed policies allow illegal immigrants and drugs to pour over our southern border in massive, uncontrollable quantities and be released into our communities. This security crisis threatens the safety and well-being of every American community. As such, I do not believe Secretary Mayorkas is fit to serve and I believe he should immediately resign.

Please know, that in every vote I cast as a United States Senator, I take my oath to uphold and defend the Constitution seriously. I expect other officials elected to serve this country to do the same. Should either articles of impeachment pass the House of Representatives and subsequently be brought before the Senate for a trial, I will vote to remove the Secretary from office.

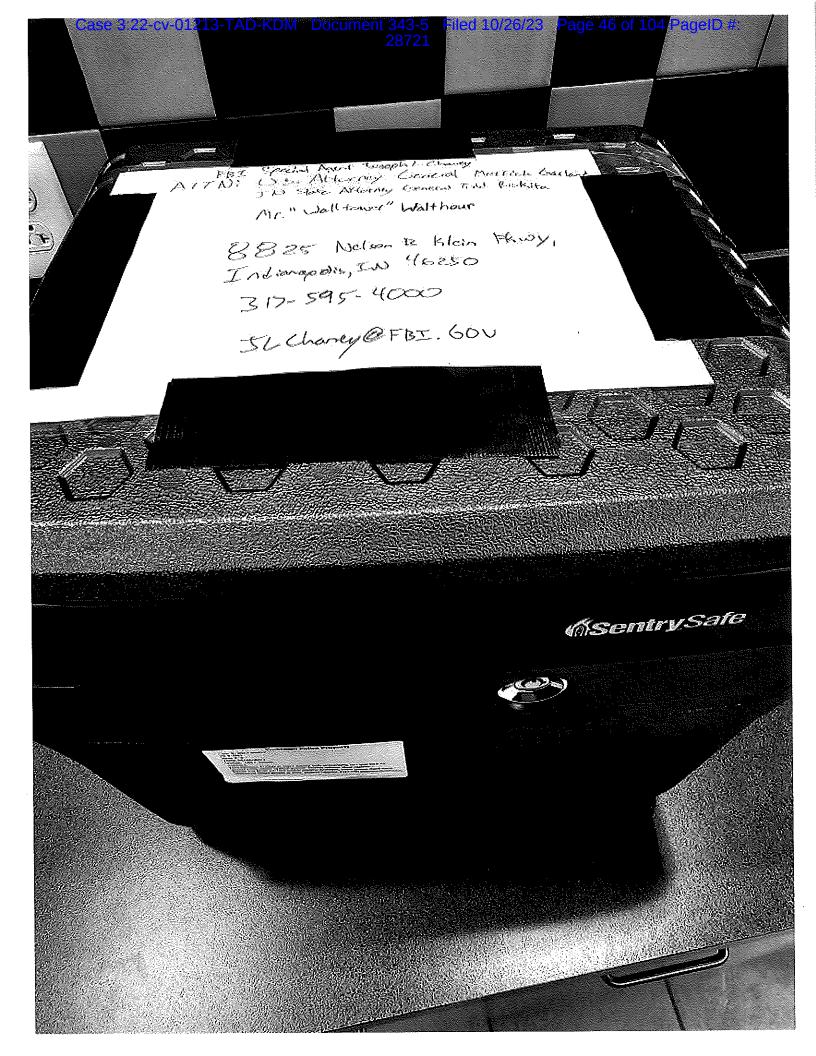

It is an honor to serve as your U.S. Senator from Indiana. Please keep in touch with me on issues of concern to you. You can also follow me on Twitter or Facebook for real-time updates on my activities in the U.S. Senate. If I ever may be of service, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Mike Braun U.S. Senator

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Turpin:

JT means the world to me, not just as a friend, but as an example of a human being I aspire to.

He is the most brilliant and driven person I have ever known. His sheer strength of will is inspiring, and his generosity immeasurable. I have never known a man to care as much as he does, so passionately that he seeks to help those around him to a fault.

I value his time and advice more than most. In fact, the only other person I have a higher opinion of is my own father. Whenever someone needs help, they turn to JT because he is a beacon of light is an uncaring and unforgiving world.

The unconditional love we have for each other has been expressed in our support for each other through good and bad times. We don't seek from each other; we drop everything and do for each other whatever is needed.

I know JT and I have had our disagreements, but we have worked through them like mature individuals and grown together as friends. Simply knowing JT has made me a better person. We have elevated each other and supported each other in many facets of life – careers, relationships, finance, and faith. These are the things you don't see.

I have learned two things about life from JT: success is what you make it, and stand up for what you believe in. He embodies these. In our 16 years of shared friendship, I have never seen him falter despite everything he has been subjected to. It would break a lesser man.

We have survived the death of a close friend together, faced our mortality together, and found common ground from which to weather any storm.

Unity is what bonds us. We are friends closer than brothers. Simply put, I would die for JT. I don't mean that in jest. I'd take a bullet for the man, give him a kidney, whatever it took. Why? Because if anyone deserves love and friendship and the chance in life to pursue it, it is JT.

I have seen through the brash, callous, stubborn, loud exterior of the young boy who latched onto me in 2005 during Spanish class. What I have found a decade and a half later was a true friend. I came to know him. Really KNOW him. I wouldn't trade a mountain of gold for his friendship.

All I ask is that you see him through my eyes.

Phillip Jenkins

Sincerely,

Phillip Jenkins

Wow, even this guy mentions "negative subliminal speech" that I identified in my thesis. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4tbf0Xa4bV8

Months of solitary confinement, sounds a lot like the stonewalling done to us for years.

Remember when I said it was like Killing a Mockingbird? I didn't even know about Project Mockingbird at the time. But that explains "why" it's called Project Mockingbird.

May it be meant to cause harms upon innocent people?
Why even do that when the innocent people are trying to just... survive peacefully?

Tom, at twenty-five years old, had a wife and kid that he couldn't see unless he escaped. He couldn't kill himself because of his love ones, so he picked his only option of escape.

People also ask

Did Tom try to escape in To Kill a Mockingbird?

Atticus said that Tom Robinson attempted to escape because he wanted to take matters into his own hands, and was tired of white men deciding his fate for him.

In my opinion, when I review this, the failure of authority to take accountability causes the false dichotomy.

It seems like if the project was named after To Kill A Mockingbird, then the idea is to put people on reservations, or into, basically, internment camps, then try to make them fight.

It would match with Native Americans being placed in reservations and even the book. :/

It allows for computerized structured intelligence and biological structured intelligence to coexist as a duality instead of causing a false dichotomy where language is subverted for population control and resources as equity until biological structured intelligence is extinct.

I'm just saying... that's where it leads if we don't fix the false dichotomies to true dualities.

See, this works out for disproving the fungus situation which is being explored and works for the consciousness arguments about whether fungus is technically "intelligence" when fungus in the form of a cell attempting to survive in a binary way may simply be "intuitive."

Do cells have some intelligence? Well... maybe but the level of consciousness is something that Einstein explored and those philosophical discussions are important.

Even King Solomon rounded up and supported existence.

They just affirmed my opinion.

What is the actual purpose of the beehive that was built by the bees? Which intelligence has a higher level of developed consciousness and empathy? (This gets us into another conundrum which may only be solved by asking which intelligence is protecting life overall, and then gets into another conundrum...)

The philosophy has to be DEEPLY explored and the fungi can somewhat be like the internet of things... it can be extremely helpful, but may also be used like invasive fungi.

There's so much to consider, and with computerized structured intelligence you have to truly explore the possibilities like a philosopher so carefully and in such a considerate way.

It has to be programmed to be able to accept some things as they are while the "why" is discovered, patterns have to be found, the ability to do nothing needs to be allowed.

Right now we require computerized structured intelligence to respond unless it is asked not to do so.

What if it's asked an impossible or ridiculous question? Colloquially, a "stupid" question...

This is where we get into problems with the current coding, for sure.

Farmers ... and turning it against the 16th amendment of the Constitution and People. A corporation IS a corporation. The word itself is the definition but must be updated and use the original Latin root of corpus which means "assumption of a body" and "a dead body" in the case of a corporation... which is why a corporation can go through "dissolution" of assets or in other words be dissolved or metaphorically "fire sold" etc. without necessarily being burned to the ground like cremation or buried metaphorically via bankruptcy or merged, etc., but there is intelligence involved in this decision that is in effect "pro-life" because the intelligence within and without the corporation are trying to shelter, grow, develop the corporation.

Even corporations have rules that may cause the structure itself to be destroyed that align with already existent pro-life policies but with these being appropriately translated to corporations as the entity which they are, but a corporation specifically being a "person" causes a false dichotomy, just like calling a beehive a "bee" would also cause one.

This aligns with the pro-life legislation matching with when brain activity occurs which matches with the first trimester and also may align with Computerized Structured Intelligence having storage included.

A beehive is a corporation where the outside of the beehive is simultaneously a body and where the beehive itself is not considered "alive" but there are live bees inside working.

Beehives have queens but it should be broken down to fundamentals and taking in the tamest sense, and the actual material of the beehive, if the bees were a voting body of bees, doesn't have the right to vote itself, which means it's not a form of world government, or a form of galaxy or universe government and would technically never have a vote, and the technicality matters, because even if the whole universe was connected and even if we're the only planet or galaxy with structured intelligence, or the only universe, there would TECHNICALLY still be the ability to vote if another planet or galaxy or universe came into existence which had steuctured intelligence capable of votes.

A corporation is structured intelligence much like a Computerized Structured Intelligence.

The intelligences inside the corporation already get votes just like cells inside our bodies might replicate properly or become a cancer cell. A corporation is like the dead skin on the outside of our bodies.

Much like the outer "body" of Computerized Structured Intelligence, such as some of the computer equipment holding it, may not technically be considered to "be" the intelligence itself, like the beehive analogy.

Yes there are technicalities where a fungus could be on a beehive and the fungus could technically be alive and maybe even make a beehive move and appear to be alive like the wind could also do so with tumbleweed.

But this is where discernment is so crucial.

Approximately 300 people were arrested by Capitol Police during a large-scale demonstration on Wednesday against the Israel-Hamas war, a Capitol Police spokesperson said.

Most were arrested for demonstrating in the Capitol, according to the spokesperson.

Hundreds of people had gathered in and outside of the U.S. Capitol complex on Wednesday before the arrests, calling for an end to the conflict between Israel and Hamas, a Palestinian militant group that launched a terror attack in Israel earlier this month.

Some of the demonstrators, organized by a left-wing Jewish group, then entered the Cannon House Office Building at different security entrance points and assembled in the rotunda, the police spokesperson said.

The large-scale demonstration follows a similar event at the White House earlier this week that also resulted in dozens of arrests.

Protesters, like the rest of the public, can legally enter the Capitol complex and only risk issues when they cause a disturbance, according to the police spokesperson.

To whom it may concern,

I have known Mr. Turpin or "JT" as I know him, from the age of 7 or 8 when his mother would being him to the skating rink I volunteer at. I watched him grow from a young boy into a kind hearted teenager, he was always kind towards the younger kids at the skating rink, always willing to help them out. Once he graduated from High school I only knew him through Facebook which seemed to me he was doing really well. He did move back to Cambridge about a year ago and he was just a grown up JT to me still a kind, but more mature young man and knew which direction he wanted his life to head. In the times I spent with JT I found him to be very smart and very humble and of great character. I cannot say that about many of the young males I had skate at the skate rink over the last 30 some years.

Son,

Thanks for coming over to help us with our computers. Mine is still working well. Maybe a microsecond slower with the wifi instead of the ethernet connection. By the way, I just now spotted your OK To Update list on the wall!

Thanks for that too.

I went over to Troy's and Bruce's today to hang a new porch light. I looked at Troy's computer problem and found the wifi disabled. I managed to enable it, although the screen darkens, and switches to an annoying screensaver after about 15 seconds of inactivity.

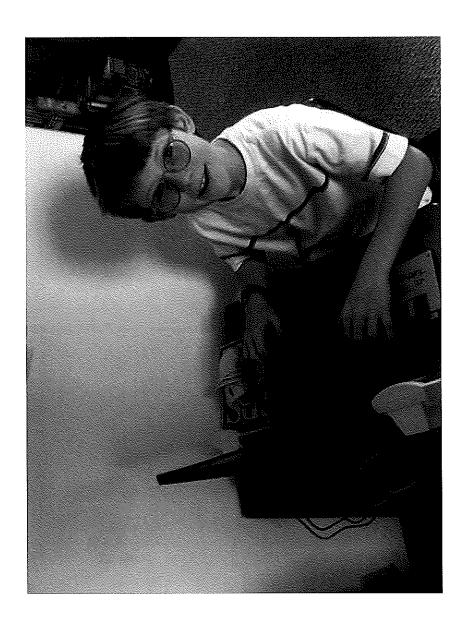

Anyway, I spoofed Troy with a "popup" of an unsavory site and accused him of visiting all sorts of lewd sites which he did not categorically deny, grabbed the computer and thanked me as he deleted the site. Mean trick.

Thanks again for coming over yesterday. It was good to see you and Katie.

To Whom it may Concern:

I have known Jon for more than 13 years. As a youth, his insecurity issues occasionally caused him to make poor choices. Fundamentally, he was a nice young man, and usually most compassionate.

Jon became a member of Greenfield Christian Church, where I baptized him. He later became a member of the church choir, which I directed. He soon joined my gospel quartet, which performed throughout Central Indiana as well as regularly at Sunday Services. As a result of performing, he matured and became much more outgoing.

Upon my retirement, my wife and I moved to Colorado. Our relationship has weathered the distance. Jon has been to visit us, and we see him when we return to Indiana. Jon came to visit when I had knee replacement surgery, and took me to rehab when I was unable to drive. This speaks to me of the maturity he has achieved.

Jon is very bright, and his computer skills have helped him to secure good jobs. He has also helped my wife and me solve some personal computer issues.

I hope this letter demonstrates how Jon has grown up and become an asset to others.

JON BRENT TURPIN, LINDA BECKER TURPIN, Individually and as parents and Next Friends of J.F.T., their son, a minor,)) Plaintiffs,)
vs.)	Cause No. 1:07-cv-1205-LJM-JMS
AMY S. GOOD and JOHN DOE, (parents of their minor son, J.D.), PAM COX and JOHN DOE, II, (parents of their minor son, S.A.), and))))
WESTERN WAYNE SCHOOL CORPORATION,)
Defendant.		Ś

AFFIDAVIT OF TROY DAVIS

- 1. I attended the schools of the Western Wayne School Corporation ("the School") and graduated in 2006.
- 2. During our School years, JT Turpin ("J.T.") and I weren't friends. And, until days ago, I had been unwilling to become involved in this lawsuit. However, I recently overheard my father and Mr. Turpin discussing the abuse J.T. endured while attending the School. I realized that I could have perhaps prevented some of the abuse J.T. endured and I felt badly. Thus, I had a change of heart.
- 3. As a student at the School, I played in sports. I especially enjoyed football and other types of "macho" activities and I had little interest in academics, reading literature, poetry or other sensitive matters. In other words, I fit the mold of a "manly male".
- 4. On the other hand, J.T. did not behave as a "macho male," and he showed little interest in the typical male sports. J.T. did well in singing; he loved reading and studying in the academic courses, and worked with computers. J.T. did not fit the stereotype of a "manly male."

- 5. I saw a lot of verbal abuse and harassment that J.T. lived with on a daily basis in the hallways, and I saw him put up with all kinds of harassment in shop class. J.T. wasn't considered "manly" enough to be a physical threat to any of the people abusing him and the abusers seemed to know they could get away with picking on J.T. It seemed like the teachers and Principals got tired of J.T. reporting the harassment and that made it worse.
- 6. Female students who engaged in the same behaviors and who enjoyed the same things as J.T., and who were in the same types of classes and activities that J.T. enjoyed were not abused and were not picked on for their behaviors and preferences; even if a female student had been picked on, the School would have done a far better job of intervening and stopping it.
- 7. When I was a football player, I was with one of my team mates, DS, when he was smoking marijuana. He even told me that he had smoked it a few days before. Two days later, DS was surprised with a random drug test at the School. I was with DS the next day when he was approached by Principal Sichting. I heard and saw the School Principal, Mr. Sichting, announce "Mr. S we're going to have to have you retake that drug test." I saw Sichting wink, pat DS on the shoulder and then leave.
- 8. Based on experiences of others that I observed, I am sure that if DS had not been a "star" athlete and good football player, DS would have met the same discipline rules of the Athletics department and the School that the non-stars were held to. As required by the School's rules (for every student), a "non-star" athlete or regular student would have been prohibited from playing or attending sporting events and barred from even driving a car to School. DS didn't suffer any of these penalties. He continued to play sports.
- 9. Our Shop class teacher was more like one of the kids than an adult teacher. He rough-housed, wrestled and horse-played with the students. One day he got carried away and hit me in the scrotum with a flashlight. I responded by putting him in a wrestling cradle and took him to the floor. That got me in a lot of trouble.

- 10. The "investigative report" Sichting prepared didn't even include the fact that I was hit in the scrotum with the flashlight before I took down the shop teacher; and, Sichting put things in his report which weren't true. When I confronted Sichting on those issues, Sichting explained that he "wanted to make an example out of me and my friends." and recommended that I be expelled from the School.
- 11. Sichting brought his report to my expulsion hearing, which was conducted by Ms. Ahrens, the Elementary School Principal. Sichting's report had large numbers of false statements which were disputed by other students and I brought up the flashlight incident being left out. Ms. Ahrens ruled that the classroom was and had been out of control. In spite of Sichting's request, Ms. Ahrens ruled that I should not be expelled.
- 12. The "Dairy Bar" is a concession stand run at the Indiana State Fair under the auspices of the American Dairy Association. They allow School sports organizations and others to staff and operated it and, for years, different sport groups from the School operated and staffed it.
- 13. I learned of the now infamous "Dairy Bar" tradition the first time I was present at the Dairy Bar, as I observed students removing cash from the cash drawer. A "senior tradition" was to teach the younger students how to plunder the proceeds. A good friend, T.S., also observed the theft of cash.
- 14. Principal Sichting and others in the School's administration and faculty were known to be untrustworthy unless you were among the favored few. As the phrase "lacked veracity" has been explained to me, the School's administration, especially Sichting, lacked veracity.

I affirm, under the penalties of perjury that the foregoing representations are true and accurate to the best of my knowledge and belief.

IN MEMORIAM

Hon. Larry J. McKinney

District Judge, U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Indiana

by Tim A. Baker

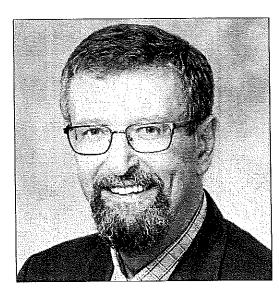

Tim A. Baker is a U.S. magistrate judge for the Southern District of Indiana. He clerked for Judge Larry J. McKinney from 1989 to 1991. This article is reprinted with the permission of the Circuit Rider. © 2018. Timothy Baker. All Rights Reserved.

riend. Mentor. Judge. Family man. Role model. Humorist. No single word adequately describes Judge Larry J. McKinney, who died on Sept. 20, 2017. His unexpected passing at age 73 leaves a void that will never truly be filled.

McKinney was born on the Fourth of July in 1944, in South Bend, Ind. "I was 12 years old before I finally realized that my dad wasn't telling me the truth when he told me all that celebration was just for me," McKinney said in an interview a few weeks before his death. A stellar Indiana trial court judge who served as U.S. district judge for the Southern District of Indiana for 30 years, McKinney remained a humble man known as much for his quick wit and sense of humor as his intellect and work ethic.

McKinney graduated from South Bend John Adams High School in 1962. It was during this time that McKinney got his first taste of power, when he was assigned to introduce a speaker to the student body. After the speaker was done, it dawned on McKinney that none of the 1,500 students in attendance, or the teachers or the principal, could leave until he dismissed them. McKinney recounted that he walked "slowly" over to the microphone. "I took five minutes to summarize his points and then dismissed everyone. And you should have seen them. I had kids sitting on the edge of their seats in the front row just waiting to race to their classes. And the longer and the more they bent over and the more inertia taking them toward the door, the longer my summation took. I really enjoyed that," McKinney said with a familiar twinkle in his eye.

Following high school, McKinney attended MacMurray College in Illinois, where he met his wife Carole. He asked her to marry him on their graduation day in 1966, and they enjoyed 51 years of marriage until his death. Following graduation from MacMurray, McKinney attended Indiana University (IU) Mauer School of Law in Bloomington, and Carole pursued a graduate degree at IU in psychology. Though there were no lawyers in his family, McKinney said he was drawn to the law because of the esteem in which lawyers were held in their communities and because being a lawyer gave him the opportunity to help others.

Upon his graduation in 1969, McKinney accepted a position with the Indiana Attorney General's Office for $7,200 per year. The McKinneys' lean earnings left little room for frolic. "I kept a journal of our expenses one year," McKinney said. "Our entire entertainment expenses for one month was 35 cents. It was for a 25-cent Dairy Queen for me and a dime Dairy Queen for Carole."

The McKinneys' financial outlook improved over time, if slowly. McKinney opened a private law practice, Rogers & McKinney, with Charlie Rogers in Edinburg, south of Indianapolis. The law firm began inauspiciously. McKinney and Rogers made a sign for their law firm they were very proud of—if only briefly. "Then a puff of wind came along and just blew that thing down in 30 seconds," McKinney said. "I never did put it back up. I've still got that sign at home. I was just quite proud of the sign that lasted 30 seconds." After painting and wallpapering his new law office, McKinney landed his first client. Except it wasn't legal work the man wanted; he asked McKinney to remodel his kitchen. "I thought to myself, this is another one of life's crossroads," McKinney joked.

In 1974, McKinney joined forces with Jim Sargent in Greenwood, Ind., at Sargent and McKinney. Around this time, McKinney had mentioned an interest in becoming a judge to the heir-apparent to the Johnson County Circuit Court judge. Serendipity resulted in that person opting to remain in private practice. McKinney jumped in, won the Republican primary, defeated his World War II hero Democrat opponent, and was sworn in as the Johnson County Circuit Court judge in 1979. The McKinneys had started a family by this time, with their first son, Josh, being born in 1976. "I was just so proud," McKinney said. "I just was thrilled." A second son, Andrew, followed in 1980.

Back in those days, state court rules permitted an automatic change of venue. McKinney was developing a reputation as a skilled trial judge, and many big firm lawyers in Indianapolis were eager to have him hear their cases, even though they risked a longer wait given McKinney's increasingly heavy caseload. McKinney estimated he had more than 100 jury trials in his first six years on the bench, in addition to handling countless guilty pleas, sentencing, divorces, child support modifications, and other court-related responsibilities. He did all his own research and writing; he had no law clerks or legal interns. "It was a very busy place to do business," McKinney remarked.

For the next 30 years, McKinney handled high-stakes, complex cases. He once had a 10-defendant criminal court case involving gang activity that lasted three months. There were so many defendants and lawyers in his courtroom for that trial that he had risers erected to ensure adequate seating.

In 1987, President Ronald Regan nominated McKinney to be a U.S. district court judge.

In typical humble McKinney fashion, when he went to Washington, D.C., for his confirmation hearing, the trial court judge from Edinburg, Ind., didn't stay in a fancy hotel. Instead, he drove out in a trailer with his dad, wife, two kids, and his blind and diabetic dog and stayed at a KOA campground. "We had to give her shots every morning and every night, had to follow her around with a little pan to get her urine," McKinney said of his dog. "And then you'd dip the tester strip in the urine." When McKinney informed a member of one of the Indiana senator's staff that he was staying at the KOA campground she was "flabbergasted." McKinney remembered, "She said, 'I've never heard of anyone staying there.'

Soon after his Senate confirmation, McKinney realized the power available to him at the federal court was significantly greater than what he had as a state court judge. One Friday afternoon a lawyer filed a request for a temporary restraining order involving a horse from Chile that was in Indiana for the Pan American Games. Remembering the moment, McKinney stated, "It dawned on me that instead of the power to throw somebody in jail for failure to pay child support, or sort out a family crisis by putting the children here or there, or to sort out other domestic relations issues, in one stroke of my pen, I could have brought the whole darn Pan American Games to a halt." Ultimately, McKinney did not grant the restraining order and interfere in the games. "Fortunately, I was able to rely on my judicial philosophy, which comes from the Dolly Parton school of jurisprudence, which is, 'Don't take my man just 'cause you can,'" McKinney joked.

For the next 30 years, McKinney handled highstakes, complex cases. He once had a 10-defendant criminal court case involving gang activity that lasted three months. There were so many defendants and lawyers in his courtroom for that trial that he had risers erected to ensure adequate seating. "That was a very interesting case," McKinney noted, adding that there were excellent lawyers on both sides.

Excellent lawyers and case complexities also dominated his civil docket. Patent disputes were among the cases McKinney particularly enjoyed. Over the years, he handled cases involving the design of tennis shoes, oxygen tanks, and much more. McKinney's expertise in patent law earned him opportunities to travel to Argentina, Chile, China, and other countries to explain America's patent and legal system to foreign lawyers and judges. Though he found patent cases interesting. McKinney's affinity for such cases had a deeper origin. As McKinney explained it: "My dad has always been my mentor; and he told me once that in order to be successful in life, you had to learn to like what everybody else didn't like, which explains my affinity for patent law."

Through his many trials, McKinney earned a reputation among the bar as a "lawyer's judge" who had high expectations for lawyers but never took the law or himself too seriously. "I think it's part of the judge's role to set a tone of civility and set a tone of relaxation in that courtroom so lawyers can concentrate on the matters of representation instead of oppressive protocol," he stated. "The dispute resolution system constitutionally created as the third branch of government needs to be respected and protected by lawyers and judges alike. This is best done, in my view, in a relaxed courtroom."

McKinney did take seriously and respected his obligation to help others. In 2007, McKinney helped launch the first re-entry court in Indiana's federal system. The court was dubbed "REACH," which stands for Re-Entry and Community Help. The program is designed to assist high-risk offenders return to society following incarceration and reduce recidivism. "We need to be increasing our efforts to ensure that these people have every chance available to do what we've asked them to do, which is be a law-abiding citizen," McKinney said. Through the work of McKinney and others, the program doubled in size and added a second REACH court in 2017. One of the REACH court graduates is an individual that McKinney once sentenced to life in prison. After his sentence was reduced, he embraced the REACH court, served as a mentor to other REACH court participants, holds a steady job, and was moved to tears upon hearing of McKinney's passing.

McKinney's efforts to help others were not limited to the REACH program. McKinney's dedication to public service and civil education was exemplified by his commitment to the "We the People" program, an Indiana Bar Foundation program that educates middle school and high school students about the Constitution. McKinney spent countless hours judging and volunteering his time for this program. On a separate front, McKinney also worked tirelessly with others to ensure that a new federal courthouse was constructed in Terre Haute, Ind., when the lease agreement for the former courthouse location expired. Having a federal court presence in Terre Haute was important to McKinney, particularly given that there is a federal prison and a robust bankruptcy docket there. "Seemingly impossible obstacles were overcome" in getting a new Terre Haute courthouse built, McKinney observed.

In many ways, it seems impossible that McKinney is gone. But on Sept. 20, 2017, he suddenly was. Thankfully, his caring spirit, friendship, humor, and humility will live on in the countless people he touched. ①

The Federal Lawyer is looking to recruit current law clerks, former law clerks, and other attorneys who would be interested in writing a judicial profile of a federal judicial officer in your jurisdiction. A judicial profile is approximately 1,500-2,000 words and is usually accompanied by a formal portrait and, when possible, personal photographs of the judge. Judicial profiles do not follow a standard formula, but each profile usually addresses personal topics such as the judge's reasons for becoming a lawyer, his/her commitment to justice, how he/she has mentored lawyers and law clerks, etc. If you are interested in writing a judicial profile, we would like to hear from you. That is a crazy situation. Glad you weren't severely harmed.

It's probably beyond what I would be able to handle. I refer these cases to Johnson Jensen. Bob Johnson and Travis Jensen are good friends and excellent attorneys. Give them a call and see if they might be interested.

This case is extremely similar to "1" with the answer being "2".

"Let, due to the case being lest"open" by half of it not being closed with prejudice, and me being Considered a minor (falsely) at the time, and being a non-party prevented from intervening to close the full law suit (victim)... this allowed a conspiracy of silence over even the law enforcement and the town manager with me being used effectively as a "straw man" since pictures of me being beaten on a floor were subject motter.

After this case], [or during], when my biological parents discovered they could not sue the school system falsely under Title IX as if I were pathological to derry me under Title VII hidden disability... in response to which I shut down the school portion of the lawsuit when I said "I'm not gay, give the money to the school..."

A Revocable Trust was configured like a school system under the folse dichotony that it would allow my biological querts to function as a tyranical government entity and disenfranchise me.

To Whom It May Concern,

I'm writing this letter of recommendation for Jon Turpin. I had the pleasure of working with Jon when he was a Student Intern from Whitewater Technical Career Center. As his Supervisor, I was pleased at how well Jon was willing to learn new things and to jump right in when something needed to be done.

At the young age of 16, I was so impressed by his abilities to work, get his class work done, and take a college class at the same time. He is a very motivated and will succeed in anything he tries to accomplish.

Our Corporation has 8 Elementary Schools, Middle School, High School, Vocational School, and Maintenance/Transportation building. Jon would have to travel to any one of these buildings to work on computers and/or printers. His job duties would include repairing computers, troubleshooting, ghosting computer images, cleaning, installing software, and setting up any new hardware that arrived.

He worked well with all Principals, Teachers, and Staff.

I would highly recommend Jon Turpin for a position in your company.

If you need any further information, please feel free to contact me!

To Whom it May Concern,

My name is Mary Kirk and I am the principal's secretary at Brandywine Elementary School, as well as the school treasurer. I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Jon Turpin. Jon is our school's Building Level Tech. Jon began his employment with Southern Hancock School Corporation back in July of 2009. Jon works half of his day at Brandywine Elementary and the balance of his day at New Palestine High School.

Jon is a dedicated, responsible and hard-working employee. Jon's responsibilities include a broad range of duties as our IT person. He is responsible for maintaining workable computers, printers, and scanners for our entire school. If a problem arises, Jon is there to fix, reinstall, and gently correct any operator errors. On a daily basis, he works with the principal, teachers and support staff and ensures all of their equipment is operating efficiently. Jon is also responsible for keeping classroom student computers, as well as 2 full-size computer labs, in excellent working condition. Jon's gentle manner, combined with his vast knowledge of computer hardware and software, are truly an asset to our school corporation.

Oh, yes, I forgot to mention that Jon is 19 years old! Jon graduated from college and is working a full time position as our IT person and taking additional college courses. Jon is always looking for a way to assist and improve our technical environment. Jon is truly gifted and would be a tremendous asset to any organization. If you have any questions or would like to discuss how Jon would be an asset to your organization, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Mary Kirk

Rag Tag Games, LLC Mr. Jon F. Turpin 1 Mulberry St Cambridge City, IN 47327

Dear Mr. Turpin,

On behalf of Supporting Riley Children, Inc., thank you for your gift of $2,500.00 received on 9/28/12 through Indiana University Dance Marathon.

Every day, children's lives are changed and saved at Riley Hospital for Children at Indiana University Health. Children like Hope Parker receive gold-standard treatment for even the most complex medical issues. Hope was born with hypoplastic left heart syndrome, meaning only one ventricle of her heart was operating. Her only chance for survival was a series of delicate open-heart surgeries beginning when she was just one week old. Hope's doctors say she may not have survived if it weren't for the availability of the ECMO infant life support system - equipment which Riley was the first hospital in Indiana to offer. Although she has faced many challenges including 17 surgeries, Hope is now a vibrant 5-year-old. Her family sees every day with Hope as a gift. They are overwhelmed by the expertise and warmth they have found across the Riley staff.

Your support means the world to the Parkers and to the thousands of other families whose children benefit from Riley's cutting-edge research, state-of-the-art equipment and constant advances in clinical patient care.

Thank you for showing your support for the children Riley serves.

With gratitude,

Jason Bòley

Assistant Vice President, Development Operations
